1. Write two possible use cases for each user story: one is the common case and one is the exception.
   - Name: Adding a new Product into the system
     - Common case
       - Steps
         - Choose command "Add Product"
         - Display "Add Product" screen
         - Input data then click "add" button
         - Hide "Add Product" screen and display "Product Added Successfully" screen
         - Click on "ok" button
         - Display main screen
     - Exception
       - Steps
         - Choose command "Add Product"
         - Input data then click "add" button
         - Hide "Add Product" screen and display "Error Product Not Added Successfully" screen
         - Click on "ok" button
         - Display main screen

   - Name: Adding a new Customer into the system
     - Common case
       - Steps
         - Choose command "Add Customer"
         - Display "Add Customer" screen
         - Input data then click "add" button
         - Hide "Add Customer" screen and display "Customer Added Successfully" screen
         - Click on "ok" button
         - Display main screen
     - Exception
       - Steps
         - Choose command "Add Customer"
         - Display "Add Customer" screen
         - Input data then click "add" button
         - Hide "Add Customer" screen and display "Error Customer Not Added Successfully" screen
         - Click on "ok" button
         - Display main screen

- Name: Adding a new purchase into the system
  - Common Case
    - Steps
      - Choose command "Add Purchase"
      - Display "Add Purchase" screen
      - Input data then click "add" button
      - Hide "Add Purchase" screen and display "Purchase Added Successfully" screen
      - Click on "ok" button
      - Display main screen
  - Exception
    - Steps
      - Choose command "Add Purchase"
      - Display "Add Purchase" screen
      - Input data then click "add" button
      - Hide "Add Purchase" screen and display "Error Purchase Not Added Successfully" screen
      - Click on "ok" button
      - Display main screen